Whooping Cranes in Flight

Described as a "one in a million" chance, this recent photograph shows three of the rare whooping cranes in flight in the Herbert district, 125 miles west of Regina. The birds were flying in the fall migration to winter grounds at Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas. The known world population of whooping cranes is only 24 according to United States ornithologists. (CP photo.)

Elizabethan Interlude Startles BBC Viewers

LONDON (Reuters)—British viewers argued Wednesday about the merits of the BBC's most controversial program of the year.

Like the viewers, the critics were divided in their reactions to Tuesday night's 2½-hour "Evening of Elizabethan Entertainment."

Setting of the program was the London of November 17, 1596, the 38th anniversary of the accession of the Elizabeth I. Viewers were asked to pretend they were watching an imaginary BBC transmission of that date, with some of the BBC's most popular current features shown as they might have appeared 357 years ago.

The BBC admitted it had received some telephoned complaints from angry TV fans. But it wants a thorough audience reaction analysis before reaching a final verdict.

In the "experiment," Sir Walter Raleigh, fresh from the sack of Cadix, was submitted to press conference questioning, and flew into a huff when it was suggested he came home with too little booty.

A group of strolling players indulged wholeheartedly in some surprisingly bawdy song and dance routines. When an earthy performance of "Friar Bacon and Friar Bungay" wound up with the rehearsed audience hurling fruit in all directions, the screen faltered and then went blank. A moment later a hand-wrought manuscript proclaimed that "our skillfullest artificers are striving to restore the entertainment with all possible speed."

The choice of language was pegged on Shakespeare, with script writer Hal Burton maintaining that not a word was spoken that wasn't used by the bard. Oxford historian A. L. Rowse supervised production to insure historical accuracy.

Morning paper TV critics appeared in Elizabethan ruffles in their photos Wednesday morning as they evaluated the results. "Corny, mellow," blasted the Labor Daily Herald's outspoken Emery Pearce. "Mediocre entertainment glossed up in ruffles and frills."

But often-cast Peter Black in the Daily Mail said the BBC had been able to "catch something of the vitality of the first Elizabethans" and had proved that television can "take social history and make it come alive."

Eisenhower Ignores White Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower shunted the Harry Dexter White case aside Wednesday and voiced "a hope the Communists in government issue will be a matter of his memory by the time next year's election rolls around."

Eisenhower said that at this time he isn't saving another word about the "Soviet espionage case that has rocked Washington and the country."

He told his press conference he hopes measures taken by his administration will clear from the minds of the American people suspicions that the government is weak in regard to Red infiltration.

In the Senate, the internal security sub-committee went ahead keeping the espionage issue alive. It gave new emphasis to several documents it had turned up previously and to two new ones to show that former treasury secretary John Snyder had promoted Harold Glasser after the FBI named both Glasser and White in reports on Soviet spying.

Whether Snyder actually saw the reports naming either White or Glasser was not established Wednesday. But a letter he wrote in 1948, brought to light during the day, made it clear he at least was aware of the charges against Glasser.

Snyder became treasury secretary in June, 1946.

Sub-committee documents showed he appointed Glasser director of the Treasury's monetary research division in August, 1946. Glasser stayed on in the treasury until the end of 1947.

CPA Tokyo Flights May Cut Payloads

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pay-loads on Canadian Pacific Airlines operating to Tokyo may have to be reduced because of removal by the United States of a weather ship stationed in the North Pacific.

A spokesman said absence of the ship will deprive them of up-to-the-minute information on meteorological conditions in an area which lies directly on the Tokyo route.

The U.S. Coast Guard announced Tuesday that the floating weather station "S for Sierra" will be recalled from her lonely position on the Great Circle route, halfway between

Object Likely Meteor

Late Wednesday night Dr. R. M. Pettie, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, said that from the limited description available the object that fell on Moresby Island appeared to be a meteorite. However, he added that meteorites do not usually burn for as long as 12 hours but cool off rapidly.

They get white hot on the outside as they travel through the atmosphere at tremendous speed but the inside remains cool and the whole cools off shortly after it hits the ground, he said.

"Meteorites are composed of stone, iron and nickel," he said. "There is nothing to burn."

The impact of meteorites striking the ground generates tremendous energy and explosions often follow.

He said if the object is a meteorite it has probably set fire to the surrounding area. Meteorites in the past have been known to set fire to whole forests.

Cloudy skies prevented the observatory staff from seeing anything in their telescopes in the last few days.

Fiery Object From Skies Hits Island

Moresby Resident Reports Phenomenon

SIDNEY—A fiery object that hurtled down from the heavens and crashed on Moresby Island in the Strait of Georgia at about 10 p.m. Tuesday was still blazing so furiously Wednesday morning that identification was impossible, meagre reports from the island said.

The object—believed to be a meteorite—struck the island in a blinding flash and caused a violent explosion. It kindled a compact but intense fire with tongues of flame shooting 30 feet into the air, according to a report by an eyewitness.

The eyewitness was C. M. Robertson, a resident of Moresby Island, who reported the occurrence in Sidney Wednesday.

He said the strange celestial missile landed about 200 yards from his home and the home of Albert Elliott, a Moresby Island farmer.

Neither dwelling was endangered by the fire which was concentrated in a small open area. Mr. Robertson said one or two trees were ignited but apparently the fire did not spread.

Both Mr. Robertson and his neighbor, Mr. Elliott, saw the explosion and saw the flash. They rushed out to investigate but the intense heat prevented close examination.

According to Mr. Robertson, the fire was still raging 12 hours later and it could not be ascertained what had started the blaze or how deep a crater had been made by the object.

Mr. Robertson, a retired plan-

Britons Shun Masks

LONDON (UPI)—The worst fog of the winter lifted its murky blanket from London Wednesday to disclose that bashful Britons had let slip their first big chance to wear the new smog masks.

Despite the clearing, air ministry experts warned that the fog which yielded much of the country Tuesday would probably return to London and southeast England during the night.

Gloom and fears of a new "killer smog" lessened as the fog blanket rolled away. Railways services were reported "almost normal" throughout the 23 counties affected by Tuesday's fog. Airlines left London on schedule.

Londoners rushed to get smog masks at the height of the fog, but few of them wore the new gadgets. They were apparently too shy to be among the first to put them on.

But U.S. navy headquarters in London announced it was issuing "improved" smog masks to U.S. navy personnel asking for them.

The masks, measuring six and one-half by four and one-half inches, are made of gauze and are washable, a naval spokesman said.

"The sailors are far more enthusiastic than the WAVES," he said. "I guess the girls don't like hiding their faces."

Woman Dies In Accident

VANCOUVER (CP)—A police drive aimed at curbing the upward trend of traffic fatalities was jolted Wednesday night when Mrs. Lucy Elizabeth Clark, 74, was fatally injured by a car near her home.

She was dead on arrival at hospital.

Woman Badly Injured In Traffic Accident

Two pedestrians, a nine-year-old girl and a middle-aged woman, were injured when in collisions with cars in two different accidents Wednesday.

Most seriously hurt was Mrs. Alice M. Kieser, 140 Bushby Street, who suffered a fractured spine and a fractured pelvis, and lacerations to face and ankles when she was knocked down at Cook and Pembroke Streets.

Royal Jubilee Hospital reported her condition as fairly good Wednesday night. Nine-year-old Sharon Grice, 828 Devonshire, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital for X-rays to her left elbow when she was in collision with a car driven by Margaret B. Molson, 925 Foul Bay Road.

Sharon was running across Fort Street from the southwest to northwest corner of Fort and Douglas when she was in collision with the car being driven east on Fort Street.

Mrs. Kieser was in collision with a car being driven south on Cook Street by James Harvey Ritchie, 1322 Johnson St.

Mrs. Kieser was crossing Cook Street from the east to west sidewalk about 110 feet south of Pembroke.

S. Anderson, 1274 Topaz, called Victoria City Police to the scene. They took Mrs. Kieser to the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A witness to the accident said Mrs. Kieser was leaving Spencerhouse with another woman and was going to cross the street when the second woman said: "Don't go yet."

Apparently Mrs. Kieser didn't hear the warning and walked straight ahead into the traffic, the witness said.

Slight damage was done in another accident Wednesday at Michigan and Government Streets where cars driven by Olive Lester, 1210 Beach Drive, and Phillip H. Vyner of Suite 5, 417 Simcoe, were in collision.

Moderate damage was done to two cars involved in an accident at the railway crossing on Esquimalt Road.

Seas Balk Rescue Of Plane's Crew

PEARL HARBOR (UPI)—A navy PBY flying boat ditched in the rough Pacific Ocean near Midway Island Wednesday without casualties, but heavy seas balked rescue attempts.

The two-engine plane ran out of fuel 130 miles north of the island and landed safely enough for her crew of seven to transfer to a raft before the airplane broke up.

However, ground swells of five to seven feet and strong ocean currents hindered efforts by aircraft overhead to pinpoint the exact location of the survivors in relation to possible rescue ships.

The navy in Honolulu first reported that the freighter Western Ocean was nearby and was steaming toward the raft, but later checks showed that the ship was 30 miles away.

Two navy planes circled the raft and reported there were seven persons aboard, the same number that took off earlier on the flight from Adak in the Aleutians.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Carl Austin Hall, ready to die for the kidnap killing of little Bobby Greenlee, turned the final stages of his trial Wednesday into a dramatic attempt to save the life of his paramour, Bonnie Brown Heady.

His surprise move came after the testimony was completed. The federal jury will take the case today after Judge Albert L. Reeves instructs them.

U.S. district attorney Edward L. Scheffler countered Hall's posture of chivalry with an impassioned demand that both must die. He said they were equally guilty of "the most heinous crime in the annals of American criminal history."

Neither Hall nor Mrs. Heady took the stand. But Hall's lawyer told the jury: "He did this. He planned it. It must not be put off on Bonnie."

And Bonnie's lawyer said she was hot "putty in the hands" of the vicious killer, Hall.

Inheritance Permits No Foreign Love

TORONTO (CP)—A former Toronto woman believed living in Vancouver will inherit $50,000 if she has not sought love with what her mother considers a "foreigner or good for nothing."

But if Elaine Marie Nash, 33, has married such a man, her mother, Mrs. Willa Aleda Nash of suburban Etobicoke township, will put the money in a trust fund so the husband can't get hold of it.

These are the stipulations set out in a letter Mrs. Nash, part-time school teacher, sent to Vancouver police. In the letter, she asked police help in finding her daughter.

The daughter left home 11 years ago. Some time ago, police in Vancouver got in touch with her and she wrote to her mother last June saying: "I am back in Vancouver, and am well." She gave only general delivery as her address and an answering letter came back to the mother. Last month the daughter wrote again, without giving a residence address.

Two snapshots Elaine sent to other relatives show her with a little girl.

Priceless Korean Royal Signets Removed

WASHINGTON (NANA)—Many priceless royal signets made of solid gold, silver and jade are missing from historic South Korean imperial palaces, it has been learned here.

The Korean ambassador, Dr. You Chan Yang, said his government believes that some, if not all, of the centuries-old objects were removed from Korea, either to Japan or the U.S., by souvenir-hunting American soldiers. In all, 47 of them are missing.

Dr. Yang asked that American soldiers in possession of, or knowing the whereabouts of, any of the historic jewels get in touch with the Korean embassy in Washington.

Dr. Yang is convinced that anyone possessing one of Korea's historic mementos, which date back as far as his nation's first ruler, will return it if aware of its value to his country.

Most of the signets are carvings, ranging from two to four inches in diameter. They are in the form of animals, some of which, such as the solid gold turtle from the reign of Taijo, the first Korean king, are recognizable to Americans. The royal "imperial" any souvenir hunter is carrying is carved at the base out of pocket for money spent in purchasing the signets, or the dynasty represented, and having them shipped home.

One of the new acts to be seen at Medrano's circus in Paris this Christmas season is "Les Chaludis," composed of four Danes who give sensational exhibits of trick cycling. ## Meeting Flaming Failure

Bruin, Logger Don't Agree

ROCKY MOUNTAIN brush to prepare their site for HOUSE Alta (CP). These are winter operations. The bear the bear facts of a meeting in was apparently waiting for the wilds between a lumber visit, especially for the camp operator and a lumber-lard, honey and various other ing, but hungry, 600-pound morsels.

Every morning for two weeks, boards nailed over win- Del Ackers, owner of the camp, down were torn off and huge 20 miles west of here, and Mr. bear tracks were left on tables Bruin, resulted in flaming loss and the floor.

In desperation one night of the camp cookhouse. Two weeks ago Ackers and Ackers shoved a heavy bench his men tramped through the through the window, jamming in place, he felt sure nothing larger than a rabbit could squeeze through.

Came the dawn and he found a bench badly smashed but still blocking the window. Satisfied, he lit the stove.

Then out of the adjoining storeroom stroled the bear. Barred by the bench-fortified window, it had tipped off the storeroom door to gain entry.

As the bear headed for him, Ackers heaved a can of coal oil at it. The cookhouse went up in flames, the well-singed bear waddled off into the bush and Ackers had his clothing burned.

The story ended a week later when the animal returned—and was shot dead.

Oil Workers Favor Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Some 200 employees of the Shell Oil Company here have voted overwhelmingly for strike action to back up demands for a wage boost.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—A much-maligned resolution (A.P.)—The UN political committee sponsored by the western big powers to step up efforts for disarmament and atomic control and suggested that private individuals, the Soviet bloc abstained from voting.

Polio Deaths

In Alberta Set Record

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta's official 1953 polio death toll reached a record 83 Wednesday—highest in Canada. There have been 82 deaths in Manitoba and 67 in Saskatchewan.

Alberta's total lunged upward when the provincial health department confirmed six deaths, five in the Calgary area and the other near Edmonton.

However, all six fatalities occurred in the nine-day period from November 2 to November 11, indicating a possibility in incidence of the disease had started to drop.

The province's previous high polio year was 1952 when 79 deaths were reported. There were 743 cases that year compared with 1,190 reported so far in 1953.

A total of 2,277 cases have been reported in Manitoba and 1,063 in Saskatchewan. Manitoba's previous high year was 1941 with 1,414 cases and 30 deaths.

Health authorities have been at a loss to explain the sudden upsurge in polio cases, particularly in northern Alberta, in the last two weeks.

Polio normally starts to fall off following first frosts of the fall season, but it reversed itself this year and started to climb in the Edmonton area.

The sudden jump forced health authorities at Edmonton to send out SOS for additional iron lungs and 20 were flown in from Calgary, Winnipeg and as far away as Boston.

Authorities now are hopeful that the worst is over, and that the disease will start to drop.

Oddities

DETROIT (AP)—Tolbert Chamberlain, 49, a water board workman, rode a stream of water out of a seven-foot-deep excavation when the main burst Tuesday.

"I came out of there like I was shot from a cannon," Chamberlain said as he picked himself off the grass unharmed. The 40-foot stream drenched cars and pedestrians nearby for 10 minutes.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Snookie, one of the world's most contrary hippopotami, is a mother.

The "little one" who will be named after Joe E. Brown or Martha Raye as soon as its sex is determined, is "all mouth and head," says zoo superintendent Earl F. Davis.

Snookie gained national fame in 1949 when she staged a sit-down strike at Chicago's Brookfield Zoo. Attendants tried to lead all 1,000 pounds of her into a truck for transfer to Columbus. They succeeded after eight days by coaxing her out of her cage with tons of hay.

After winning the Croix de Guerre for battlefield bravery, the French Foreign Legion to the Briton was sent back to see some action has won a France with wounds. He spent remission of his eight-week six months in a hospital and prison sentence for desertion. The Edward Roberts told a court martial last Wednesday. Released Wednesday, Roberts now returns to his unit to fight for a transfer from Germany to the Far East. When his last of his conscription period. Then he left his unit, enlisted in the regular army.

Howard H. Clark Edmonton Bishop

EDMONTON (CP)—Very ferred on him the honorary Rev. Howard H. Clark, dean of Ottawa, is the new Anglican bishop of Edmonton. Dean Clark was elected Wednesday by the synod of Edmonton diocese to succeed Archbishop W. F. Barfoot. Primate of All Canada, who has become metropolitan of Rupert's Land with headquarters at Winnipeg. Mr. Clark has spent practically all his ministry at Christ Church Cathedral in Ottawa.

He is a graduate of Trinity College, Toronto, where he received the bachelor of arts degree. Later, in 1915, a few weeks after he became dean of Ottawa, Trinity College con-

In Ottawa, the dean—he won't be a bishop until his consecration—said in an interview that "to have some part in the development of the spiritual life there in Alberta will be a great privilege."

He said he was also pleased with the move because when he takes over his Edmonton charge, he will be going back to the province in which he was born.

Dr. Clark's father was a vice-president of Commercial Chemicals, said "George in the original RCMP fact just worked for us from 1947 to 1950. He left us three of his own city."

The dean said he expects his consecration as bishop will be held in Edmonton in January.

Fake Hero Keeps Job

CALGARY (CP)—George Dupre, teller of tall tales about his wartime experiences, will continue to be branch manager of Commercial Chemicals Ltd., here, a company official said Wednesday.

A recent story by former war correspondent Quentin Reynolds said Dupre served in France in the Second World War as a British intelligence agent and survived Gestapo torture. Dupre's story later was exposed by a hoax.

James C. Barr of Vancouver, vice-president of Commercial Chemicals, said "George in the original RCMP fact just worked for us from 1947 to 1950. He left us three of his own city."

The dean said he expects his consecration as bishop will be held in Edmonton in January.

Mansion Just Crumbling Ruin

U.S. Baronet Views Estate

KIRKOWAN, Scotland (Reuters)—Sir Adrian Dunbar, one-time handy man from Maryland who inherited a Scottish title, stood in the shadow of a derelict, moss-covered mansion and said he will renounce his United States citizenship.

While he said his first visit to his ancestral estate at near Mochrum Park Tuesday he said:

"I am going to renounce my American citizenship because this is my home and this is the land of my origin."

Dunbar was born in Weymouth, England, 60 years ago. He inherited Mochrum Park with its 40-room mansion, 15 farms and 3,400 acres of land in January when he became the 12th baronet of Dunbar after the death of two previous baronets. He arrived in Scotland about 10 days ago and until Tuesday had been conferring with his lawyers.

Dunbar, who went to the U.S. via Canada, was obviously disappointed when he and his American wife, Emma, drove up to Mochrum mansion, a crumbling ruin. He couldn't get in to see the place. The caretaker, who had the keys, was to roll up my sleeves and get busy."

He said he had no intention of restoring the manor unless someone left him "a couple of million dollars and wages of 80 servants." The most he'll get out of the estate is an annual income of about $5,000. "The whole estate needs a less tax, in rents from the farms."

Huge Station Sends Signal

JIM CREEK VALLEY, Wash. (AP)—The United States Navy Wednesday flashed its first messages to its ships, planes and stations around the world from what it calls the world's mightiest radio transmitter.

The $14,000,000 station NLR, utilizing 1,200,000 watts of power, is located on Mount Rainier, east of Seattle.

Wild and Contemptible

THE slather of wild accusation that marks the Communist witchhunts in the United States has overflowed the 49th Parallel in an attempt to besmirch the name of Mr. Lester Pearson, this country's highly respected external affairs minister. Mr. Pearson has been publicly charged by a so-called authority on Communist espionage of sabotaging American efforts to disclose Soviet intrigues in Washington and Ottawa. The accusation will be received everywhere in Canada with the contempt it deserves; it did not even need Mr. Pearson's disclaimer that it was "false to the point of absurdity."

One point cited against our external affairs minister is that he prevented the appearance of Igor Gouzenko before a U.S. Senate investigation committee. This is to his great credit. It would have been a case of throwing a victim to the wolves had the former Soviet embassy clerk been subjected to the kind of inquisition that accompanies anti-Communist probes across the line. Mr. Gouzenko rendered this country a great public service, one that has forced him to live since under RCMP protection. Were he to be taken to Washington he would be exposed to the risk of personal harm, and for no purpose other than to make a Roman holiday for political headline seekers. If U.S. Senate committees really want information on Soviet activities in Canada they can secure it readily through the proper channel, the Canadian government.

This country prefers to combat Communism in its own, quieter way. It does not favor the smear, a tactic that has done irreparable damage to more than one honest personage across the line, and too often based solely on the dubious word of some confessed or convicted American Communist. It does not subscribe to witch-hunting, or to the creation of an atmosphere of fear, the inevitable corollary of irresponsible accusation. It has confidence, also, in the personal integrity of its political leaders, than whom none shines more clearly in this connection than Hon. Lester Pearson. The accusation against him is not only contemptible; it is ludicrous.

Women Senators and Divorce

IT is a characteristic of the female sex that when its members see something that is patently wrong they will not rest until it has been righted. In this respect women are far more practical than men. The end is the important thing; the means to accomplish it can always be found by perseverance. Sometimes the route to the objective is a devious and, to men, a bewildering one but a determined woman will get there ultimately. All of which excites anticipatory interest in the appointment for the first time of representatives of the distaff side to the Senate's committee on divorce—because the system under which Parliament's upper house has to listen to all the sordid details of broken marriages in Quebec and Newfoundland is as wrong as wrong can be. Not merely wrong, but absurd; and if there is one thing women have little patience with it is the perpetuation of a manifest absurdity.

Because these two provinces have no divorce courts and the marriage ties of their citizens can be severed only by act of Parliament, the Senate each year has to deal with hundreds of petitions for divorce, hear and examine all the evidence and pass upon a separate act of dissolution in each case—emphatically entitled "an act for the relief of" the petitioner. Cynics may say that this gives the occupants of a moribund upper chamber something to do to earn their indemnities. Be that as it may, the loading of divorce petitions onto the Senate is an indignity to the senior legislative body of the nation and an imposition on the taxpayers of the eight provinces which maintain their own divorce courts.

Each year the chairman of the committee on divorce presents a plaintive protest against this use of the Senate. The protest is entered in the records of the House, and there it lies. It is hard to believe that the two new members of the committee will be satisfied with that routine. Senator Fergusson of New Brunswick is a lawyer, and Senator Hodges of British Columbia is a former member of the provincial legislature noted for outspoken candor on matters of public interest; but, more significantly, both are women. We fancy Canada will be hearing some pungent views on the subject of divorce-by-Senate before long.

Courage in the Air

THE pilot of a United States military transport plane over Fort Bragg who remained at the controls of his damaged aircraft to give 20 enlisted men a chance for their lives by jumping in parachutes unfortunately went to his death, although the majority of the personnel on board his plane survived. This courageous, self-disciplined action, which under the circumstances could only have been taken by deliberate choice, will rank high in the annals of a military service with a singularly fine record. His example was followed by the non-commissioned officer in charge of the paratroopers, who miraculously survived.

Although it is still in its first half-century, aviation has added manifold examples of heroic self-sacrifice under desperate circumstances to the older, but no finer, tradition of the sea. In this instance, although the pilot's action saved the lives of many men under his keeping, the damaged plane caused heavy loss in its path through teams of parachutists who had already jumped from other planes in a combined exercise. Situations of that nature can develop in the air in a split second, but when the terminal run comes every man knows it. The outstanding bravery of the pilot and jump master of the crippled plane reduced the loss from what it might have been. The pilot gave his own life that others might live. It was finely done.

VICTORIA THEATRE GUILD

Sir, May I appeal to the former members of the Victoria Theatre Guild to return to the fold? The membership is down to a dangerous limit, yet we are and specifically appealing for money. If those members who always meant to, but through pressure of private and business affairs have neglected to do so, would re-enter, everything would once more be alright with the guild.

The subscription is still the same for the season, and though one play (Affairs of State) has passed, value for the subscription can still be had.

The season's activities cover a series of lectures on all aspects of the theatrical art, performances of one-act plays in December and January besides four more major productions, a party at Christmas and at the end of the season. A special performance for the Welfare children will be given, and these children will also receive toys from the proceeds of the one-act plays in December. A reception after the opening performance of each major production has been arranged, and refreshments after each general meeting.

One aspect of the guild should be borne in mind by all those interested in the art of the theatre. In Canada the amateur stage is the nursery of the professional stage and the TV productions for the new TV stations now being built across Canada. Professional repertory cannot possibly give the training necessary to the immature for a polished performance with a new production every few weeks they haven't the time to teach. Therefore, besides giving personal enjoyment to members either as an absorbing hobby or social relaxation, another function of the guild is training for the hopeful amateur.

Improvements have been made in the theatre and are still taking place. The next production is on November 21, "The Lady Asks for Help," directed by R. W. L. Ritchie. Box offices open Thursday, November 19, at Eatons, and subscriptions may be purchased there, or at the Costume Shop, Cook and Fort, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., daily.

We do not ask for charity but we do ask for help and will give value for that help.

BRUCE BANYARD, Chairman, Membership and House Committee, 1037 Craigdarroch Road, Victoria, B.C.

CHILDREN AT CENOTAPH

Sir, I would appreciate it very much if you would allow me a bit of space to voice my opinion. I am a returned man and always attend the Remembrance Day ceremony. It appears to me that on such a sacred occasion that the parents of children should not allow their kids to play around and make noise, as they were doing then. When I went and found about 20 kids to shut up and keep quiet I was met with abuse. I never felt more like giving kids a good sound spanking as then, I add.

I think our police are very slow in regard to keeping kids quiet on so solemn occasion and would suggest that the police be given orders to do their bit in keeping children quiet, especially at the Remembrance Day ceremony.

GEORGE EASTERBROOK, 818 Queens Avenue, Victoria, B.C.

PATRICIA BAY HIGHWAY

Sir, I think everybody who has had road experience will concur in Mr. A. H. McPherson's letter in the Colonist re Patricia Bay Highway.

If a road is not properly drained, the sub-base gets thoroughly saturated in our wet winter season. Then, if we get a good frost (which often happens), the sub-base freezes and the road develops a nice rash of frost boils; the black top bulges up and then wears into holes. Result is expensive continual patching and a very poor road surface.

The Patricia Bay Highway is a good road; plenty good enough for the volume of traffic. A four-lane highway is not needed and altogether too expensive.

... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

IN A new book on Europe, "Fire in the Ashes," sure to have a wide sale across the line for it is a current book club choice, there is an appraisal of Churchill that will lift many an eyebrow.

The author is an American foreign correspondent, Theodore H. White, and his book purports to sum up the state of mid-twentieth century Europe.

Writing of English leadership he says:

"No one comments on how different is the Churchill who leads the Tories of today from the Churchill of 1940. Sir Winston of today is an old man, whose hearing is failing; dependent on and almost suffocated by cronies of other days, almost timid and sometimes hostile to new faces, his great brilliance is more and more obscured by the darkness of age and the forgetfulness of senility."

Is that severe assessment an exaggeration?

Churchill is not the man he was in 1940, how could he be? But few have believed he had slipped so far into mental disrepair. And apart from wish being father to disident thought if this be so he is certainly staging a remarkable rear engagement against time.

I am in no position to contradict Mr. White, who may have sipped tea with Churchill and discovered how dull he has grown, but some things puzzle me.

I watched Sir Winston move up the aisle of Westminster Abbey not so long ago. He didn't run, 'tis true, but he didn't stumble either, and when he took a good look around the assembly before taking his seat he seemed full of mental poise. Only a week ago he was on the air, speaking on foreign affairs at the Lord Mayor of London's banquet. He didn't say very much, designedly, but he chose his words with acute perception, and he bubbled with a wit and humor that few others could match. If he were just enjoying a lucid interval then it stretched out very coincidentally.

I have been reading too the published extracts from his closing volume of war memoirs, which, interestingly enough, must have been written or at least revised while Mr. White was writing his book, and this last of an amazing series appears to be the peer of its predecessors. There is no evidence of lack of grip, or the slightest sign of old age, in its pages. In fact these will stand favorable comparison with Mr. White's own, and then some.

In The Vancouver Sun a former Colonial reporter, Bill Fletcher, now on a trip to Europe, tells of being in the British House of Commons this week and listening to Churchill in debate. He writes that his was "the voice of authority," and adds that when Churchill finished 75 per cent of the members got up and left, not desiring any anti-climax.

Sir Winston, then, may not be quite senile yet.

He needn't necessarily be, just because he is 78 years old. Not a few men in Victoria are that age or more and still retain considerable vigor of mind. I know one myself intimately, and he has lively mental faculties.

If Churchill really were as Mr. White depicts him, then his friends, and his political opponents, would be conspiring to keep him in office as a false front. And in times as crucial as this, how hard to believe, or that they'd let him go to Bermuda if, as Mr. White avers, darkness has descended on him. And certainly it is a salutary thought, difficult to absorb, that the indomitable Churchill has grown "almost timid."

Reports from Ottawa

IN the light of the recommendations two years ago of the royal commission on transportation, the federal cabinet's actions on truck lines, pipe lines and air lines assume a certain pattern.

Trouble is, the pattern is inconsistent. In the national interest Ottawa is ready to impose federal regulation of interprovincial motor carriers as soon as the Privy Council confirms its jurisdiction.

Ottawa is also moving to assume control of international pipe lines, which are now outside its purview. This will block a Toronto company's plan to import gas from the United States and again in the national interest will preserve the Toronto market for Alberta gas which will be piped east.

On the other hand, Ottawa has refused to let Canadian Pacific Air Lines start a needed trans-Canada air freight service. The government's reason is the same—the national interest—but its case isn't nearly as strong as the cases for action with respect to trucking and gas lines. Indeed, it isn't even as strong as the case in favor of granting CPA's application which the Air Transport Board made without trying to.

The royal commission reported in 1951 that "the several means of transportation... should be so regulated as to serve not only individually but collectively in meeting the country's needs."

In light of that statement, you can tick off the truck lines and the pipe lines. Prospective government action with respect to them falls well within the commission's recommendation.

The action taken in the CPA case doesn't. Indeed, the weight of evidence supporting CPA's application indicates the cabinet confused the public interest with Trans-Canada Air Lines' interest.

The public's primary interest in air transportation is that it be provided with the best service possible at fair and reasonable rates. The public's secondary interest stems from the fact that TCA is wholly owned by the Canadian National Railways, and the nation owns a majority of the CNR capital shares. It is thus in the public interest that TCA not lose money—but not that TCA make money. For if a publicly-owned utility shows profits, those profits must largely come out of the pockets of the owners, the public.

Therefore the question which should have decided this issue are (1) is the CPA proposal likely to give the public better service than it gets now? (2) if so, is this better service needed? and (3) is it likely to work undue hardship on TCA with resultant deficits in TCA operations?

The Air Transport Board spent three weeks last February hearing both CPA and TCA arguments for and against the proposed cargo service. It studiously refrained from recommending to the cabinet that CPA be given the green light, because such recommendation would have been beyond its authority. But it did express conviction that:

1. "Scheduled all-cargo air services should be set up."

2. "There is room and a need for both" the kind of mixed passenger-freight service now provided by TCA, and "scheduled all-cargo flights in aircraft specifically designed for that purpose" such as CPA proposed.

The cabinet ruled against the CPA application after far less consideration than the ATB experts had given it. Thus under the guise of national interest the government set back aviation progress in this country at least two years. Even if it wanted to give the public the kind of service CPA planned, TCA couldn't do it in less time than that.

On the Record

All This In One Year

A TORREY - General Brownell's sensational charge that president Truman's appointment of Harry Dexter White to the International Monetary Fund followed reception of reports from the FBI revealing ist connections may have been made, as Mr. Truman asserts, as a counter-move to offset Republican defeats in the recent elections. The motive behind Mr. Brownell's move is, however, less important than whether or not his charges can be proved.

But whether or not the charges, even if substantiated, will greatly aid the Republican Party, is a question. Also, a question is what elements in the divided party will be aided.

The administration is losing public support. The American people usually vote against, rather than for, Trumanism, and for "like Ike." They still "like Ike," but it does not follow that they have unabated enthusiasm for him in his present office, or for the performance of the Republican Party; or that, in another three years, they may not prefer a Democrat other than Truman for president.

In times of crisis Americans want a president. Throughout the administrations of Franklin D. Roosevelt they had one. He dominated the entire political scene. His position within his party was sovereign. He towered high above his entourage. At his press conferences he was never at a loss for an answer. He wanted, he said, the services of "anonymous men." And he was elected "again, and again, and again."

The benevolently aristocratic Roosevelt was succeeded by a common man. National unity was dissolving with the end of the war. Truman, who never had Roosevelt's authority over the whole nation, wielded his power through party machines, and coalitions of minority groups. He inherited an administration that had been fairly well stocked with left-wingers, fellow travelers, and some outright Communists during the period when the Soviets were our "great allies."

The country was disillusioned with the results of the Second World War, as the doves of wartime political policies came home to roost as ravens. President Truman was a little careless about corruption. And he led the country into a peace action which became a bloody, dragged-out war and a military stalemate. The nation, filled with a kind of inarticulate disgust, voted for a new administration under a great American.

During the campaign, the Republican Party's headquarters seemed dominated by hucksters who treated major political matters like products to be sold.

They promised a solution of the Korean war, lower taxes, stronger defenses, increased prosperity, the end of controls, a government of the country's ablest men (able at what?), the purging of Communist sympathizers from government, the maintenance of traditional civil liberties, and an all-out political offensive against the Soviets.

Nobody—but nobody—could fulfill those promises, so contradictory within themselves.

Korean hostilities ended, but in a squalid and inconclusive armistice. Defenses were augmented but taxes did not go down, and the Russians announced possession of the hydrogen bomb. Farmers who had wanted less government intervention faced falling prices not reflected in the consumers' market. The anti-Communist campaign became a monopoly of Senator McCarthy and associates in other congressional committees, embarrassing the president's most ardent supporters and sending liberal independents scuttling to the Democratic fold. Pepped-up "psychological warfare" won us no new friends and alarmed our old ones. The "ablest men" could not keep their mouths shut, nor agree that, if they opened them, they should say approximately the same things.

And far from standing out head and shoulders above an anonymous entourage, the president is rapidly becoming the anonymous man in Washington, half tongue-tied in the Babel of his surroundings. His virtues—the purity of his intentions, his soldierly devotion, his old-fashioned liberalism, his outstanding ability to organize men devoted to a common cause—are obscured in a political melee devoid of direction.

***

And the most outstanding political mind and character in the Republican Party, Sen. Robert A. Taft, has been withdrawn by death.

All in one year.

A PADRE IN PRINT

BY REV. WILLIAM HILLS

Do you take a dim view of the men in navy blue? After perusing some of the letters which have crossed my desk, it seems that there are many loyal citizens around the town who do.

Some of these epistles are in his words, "downright unsuitable" for naval service. "It is time, he went on, to look at our homes, our schools, and our churches."

It is obvious that this disturbing report constitutes a challenge not only to the service concerned but to those of us outside the barrack gates. There is a reason for most things in this life, and I believe, I see one here. It stems from the dislocation of family life brought about by the last war. Now I know that "the war" has been a convenient peg upon which to hang a good many social problems, but I think it is a valid enough one in this case.

A lad who reaches his 18th birthday in 1953 was born in 1935. Before he turns five, war breaks in on his life. At the onset of his adolescence, when the absence of a father makes its most telling wounds, he finds that he must not only do his duty but make friends again with his mother's husband. During the absence of the man of the house, his life has been dominated by his mother.

Most boys are able to make their readjustments, but many of those who find service life, in time of peace, a more attractive prospect than the competition in the industrial or commercial labor market have not been quite so successful with this problem.

So far as the naval service itself is concerned, it can remedy many a situation involving morale and manners not merely by exerting an outward discipline, but by recovering once again, its traditional respect for the things of religion. It can give its chaplains a real job of work to do.

At the present time, a physical training instructor has more support for his program than the padre has for his.

By far the most of Admiral Hills' men are law-abiding and a credit to the uniform they wear. Unfortunately, it is the irresponsible, clown and the anti-social thing in the Queen's service who attracts attention. But, by the same token, these clowns and these things are to be found in abundance in civilian life. One could be living next door to you, or driving the car in front of you.

The local police courts would reap a slim harvest in fines if every citizen on civvy street kept his yardwork clean.

The other day a Toronto audience settled down comfortably to hear an address from one of the navy's "brass." They did not expect to hear any secrets, or to be inspired by a flood of golden sayings. Admirals and generals are usually not equipped for that sort of thing. For one thing, inquisitiveness could get them into trouble, and for another, the politician is jealous of his preserves.

But what Hugh Pullen had to say made them sit up and take notice. The Chief of Naval Personnel has a blunt and cheeky but just manner which is characteristic of his integrity. Out of 14,000 young Canadians who had tried to join the navy, 9,000 of them were rejected during a 12-month period ending September 30 of this year.

One in three of them were rejected. The other two were accepted. The Bulgarian Official Relieved of Post.

"Little Red Riding Hood," Fitzgerald will play the lead roles. Mrs. Nicholson said. As a special feature of the Children's Theatre performance this week end, gifts will be given to children with birthdays coming up by Red Riding Hood.

Those who have birthdays in the near future are asked to phone Flora Nicholson at G 9591 before Friday.

Flora Nicholson, director of the company said Wednesday that reception to the show last week at Esquimalt High School was most gratifying.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

"We had 600 children at each of the performances," she said. This weekend marks the end of the children's theatre tour through city schools, but not the end of the show.

The company has been asked to appear at Chemainus early in January.

From now until that time, all efforts of St. Luke's will be expended on rehearsals of "High Ground," in preparation for the B. C. Regional Drama Festival in Vancouver, February 8 to 13.

Christmas Mail Deadline Near For Sailors on Far East Duty

Deadline for mailing Christmas parcels for Canadian navy men serving in the Far East is less than a week away.

The Royal Canadian Navy announced Wednesday that parcels and ordinary letters should be received in Victoria not later than Wednesday, November 25, to ensure delivery before Christmas day. Closing date for air mail reaching the West Coast for the Far East is December 9.

THREE DESTROYERS

Ships which will be operating in the Far East at Christmas are the destroyers Huron, Crusader and Iroquois.

Two others, the Cayuga and Haida, will enroute to Japan to relieve the Iroquois and Huron early in the new year. HMCS Cayuga sails from Esquimalt on November 25 and the Haida leaves Halifax on December 14.

Globe Trotters a Fitting Name For Saperstein's Hoop Artists

When Abe Saperstein collected a basketball team 28 years ago and named it the Harlem Globe Trotters, he could only have dreamed of the days when he would so aptly fit his now famed Trotters, who are due to embark on their fifth global tour this season.

The master ball-handlers, who make a long-awaited appearance in Victoria Saturday night when they meet the professional Boston Whirlwinds at Bay Street-Armory, have come a long way since the English-born Saperstein left Chicago in 1927 on a barnstorming tour as his club's only "substitute."

Playing to capacity houses at almost every stop in recent years, the court wizards have drawn the greatest crowds in the sport's history, topping all marks when they performed before 75,000 spectators at Berlin's Olympic Stadium.

The man behind the Globe Trotters' success through the years is, of course, Saperstein, a tireless worker who has done much to improve the relationship between his country and other countries.

BORN IN LONDON

Born in England, he was brought to America from London when he was five and later played basketball at Lake View High School on Chicago's North Side. After a bit of college activity at the University of Illinois, he coached a basketball team at a small Chicago playground—with a great deal of success.

This led to a job coaching the Chicago Giles Post American Legion, quietest and with the building of the large Savoy Ballroom in Chicago's Negro colony, the Giles Post team moved intact to that location and became the "Big Five." Because of financial difficulties, half the team, plus coach Saperstein, left, adding several ex-colleagues and starting a barnstorming tour of the Chicago area.

From its inception the team has been a Chicago aggregation, the name being used because Harlem designated a colored enterprise, and because the Globe Trotters signified a traveling organization.

ROUND THE WORLD

In 1927, few realized that the Globe Trotters would later wind their way to Europe,

South America, the mid-Pacific and, as a Silver Anniversary gift to the players in 1952, a complete trip around the world. Twice the team has been granted private audiences of Pope Pius XII at his summer estate outside of Rome.

Saperstein is a stockholder in the Baltimore Orioles and has been a member of the Baltimore Orioles since 1947.

AMAZING RECORD

In the Trotters' 27 years of competition, they have built up a phenomenal record. Previous to the start of this season, they had played 4,767 games and lost but 267 of them. Their greatest season was in 1950-51 when the club won 334 games while losing six. The least successful was in 1941-42 when the colored artists dropped their all-time high of 18 games while winning 135 times.

Appearing with the club as one of the shrewdest scouts in the business, having helped several players to break into major league baseball.

With Beaches

Leading scorer of the OREU in his first season with Halmy Beach, Dick Gregory was chosen the union's most valuable player by players of four teams in the league. The 24-year-old halfback will be with Beaches in Grey Cup semi-final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Winnipeg Saturday.

From its inception the team has been a Chicago aggregation, the name being used because Harlem designated a colored enterprise, and because the Globe Trotters signified a traveling organization.

Four Canadians On All-Star Teams

Four Canadians, three of them named to the defensive team, have been selected for the New Liberty magazine all-star Canadian football teams by head coaches of Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union teams.

Frank Morris of Edmonton, former Toronto Argos player who broke his leg at the tail-end of this season, was the lone Canadian-born player on the offensive squad, holding down one of the two guard positions. Tom Lumsden of Winnipeg, an end, guard Ed Vevan of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and halfback Ray Wilsey of Edmonton were the Canadians named to the defensive team.

WEST HAS EDGE

The West holds a slight manpower advantage on the defensive team with seven of the 12 players while six players from each of the Western Interprovincial and Big Four leagues were named to the offensive squad.

Edmonton has an overall margin over the seven other eligible clubs with six of the 24 players while Hamilton is next with five, all of them on the defensive team. Montreal is next with four, Winnipeg and Saskatchewan have three each, Ottawa has two while Calgary placed one. Toronto Argos, last year's Grey Cup champions, who finished last in the Big Four race this season, failed to place a man on either squad.

JOHNSON NAMED

The offensive backfield would make any coach enthusiastic. Quarterback is Sam Etcheverry of Montreal while the halfbacks are both from

Barrett's Win Over Airlines In 'B' League

Barrett & Sons Transfer extended their lead to three points over second-place B.C. Airlines in the Victoria-Fable Tennis Association's senior "B" league Tuesday night by trimming their opponents, 30-20, at Club Sirocco.

Morgan & Tucker won its first game of the season by downing Gordon's Sporting Goods, 29-21, to move to within one point of third place.

Gerry Woods took individual honors with nine victories while Wil Jay, Russ Lang, John Metcalf and Bob Edington each won eight games.

Individual scores follow: Morgan & Tucker, John Metcalf 8, Wil Jay 7, Russ Lang 6, Gerry Woods 5, Bob Edington 4, Gordon's Sporting Goods, Ray Green 3, Art Gamble 2, Jim Lum 2, Sewell Campbell 2, Joe Lind 2, Total 21.

Barrett & Sons Transfer, Doug Kay 3, Mike Lum 2, Don Valt 2, Gerry Woods 2, Wil Jay 2, Total 38.

B.C. Airlines—George Fawcett 3, Russ Lang 2, Max Lum 1, Beverly Greig 1, Ron Wong 1, Total 20.

Drivers Given Warning Before Dangerous Race

TUSTLA GUTIERREZ, Mexico (UPI)—Race drivers from 10 nations received their final briefing tonight for the dangerous $100,000 Pan American highway race across Mexico starting at dawn today.

They were warned they will have to drive racing cars capable of speeds up to 180 miles an hour—as slow as 10 miles per hour over risky stretches of the mountainous, 325-mile first lap from this southeastern Mexican village to Oaxaca.

A total of 199 road-racing and passenger cars was entered in the five-day, 1,912-mile speed test which will end next Monday at Ciudad Juarez across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Tex. But not all were expected to show up for the start.

WOODEN BRIDGES

Officials reported the paved highway to the colonial capital of Oaxaca was in "generally good" condition but cautioned drivers they would have to reduce speed "drastically" over several wooden bridges and rough sections of the road.

City Sports May Get Commission

A Victoria Athletic Commission, provided for by by-law in 1952 and never implemented, may soon be set up by City Council.

Council passed a by-law last year providing for the commission following complaints about local wrestling matches. The by-law called for a three-man regulating commission but none was set up at the time.

The matter is being pressed now by Ald. Frank Mulliner. Names of Archie McKinnon and Doug Fletcher have been mentioned as possible candidates for two of the posts. A third suggestion was that one of the two newspaper sports editors fill the other position.

The commission would see that permit requirements in the by-law were carried out.

Hamilton Ti-Cats Blast Alouettes, 37-18, To Take First Game of Big Four Playoff

BY WILF GRUSON

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats, in spectacular bursts of scoring power directed by quarterback Ed Songin, Wednesday struck for six converted touchdowns through the air and along the ground to trounce Montreal Alouettes, 37-18, in the the fiercely-fought struggle in success for the first time in quarter touchdowns.

Civic Stadium in perfect, sunny weather. They were held to a single Big Four title since Carl Voyles point in the first quarter and took over as coach in 1950, then the Tiger-Cat wingline took wrapped up Wednesday's game over to set up Hamilton's score by exploding for four seconding opportunities.

The Tiger-Cats, hoping for

SONGIN BRILLIANT

Ed Songin, the league's all-star quarterback, was completely overshadowed by Songin who guided the Tiger-Cats' super-charged attack in brilliant fashion with outstanding help from backs Don Kuserow, Merle Hapes, Bernie Custis, Ralph Tooby and Royal Bailey.

Songin, former Boston University pivot who this year tied out with the professional Baltimore Colts, tossed three touchdowns passes, one a 100-yard pass and run play with Ray Truant, ordinarily a defensive back, the receiver.

His other two touchdown heaves went to Kuserow, who altogether scored three touchdowns. Kuserow, former Columbia University half, tossed a touchdown pass to Tooby and figured prominently in the other Hamilton major, scored by the hard-hitting Hapes on a seven-yard smash.

CONVERTED SIX

Tip Logan converted all six touchdowns to run his string of successful converts over the last three years to 78. Cam Fraser got Hamilton's other point with a single in the first quarter.

Big Ray Poole and John "Red" O'Quinn caught the passes Etcheverry threw for Montreal's touchdowns. Both were converted by Poole.

Five Children Die in Blaze

Five children died in a fire which broke out in a house in the city of London, England, last night. The fire started in a kitchen and spread rapidly, burning for several hours before being brought under control. The children, who were sleeping in the house, were found dead in their beds. The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Bonner Interpretation Of Lord's Day Act Sought

The interpretation of the Lord's Day Act by the courts is being challenged by a group of people who believe that the act should be interpreted in a way that allows for more flexibility. They are seeking a ruling from the courts that would allow for the use of the day for other purposes, such as sports and entertainment.

Absence of 'Personal Touch' Impedes Shipyard, Union Talks

The absence of a 'personal touch' in the negotiations between a shipyard and a union is being cited as a major impediment to reaching an agreement. The shipyard is claiming that the union's demands are unreasonable and that they are unable to meet them. The union is claiming that the shipyard is not doing enough to improve the working conditions of its employees.

SPOTLIGHT TEST PROVES VAST SUPERIORITY OF G-E ULTRA-VISION

WHAT THIS TEST MEANS TO YOU

This test proves that G-E Ultra-Vision allows normal room lighting that softens and improves the TV picture, to give a full evening's life-like entertainment that is so easy on the eyes. If you want to read or knit or work while others watch TV, you can have all the light you need. Yet G-E Ultra-Vision will give the same eye comfort, viewing ease and stunning realism, however large or small your living room. Insist on seeing Ultra-Vision at your G-E dealer... the moment you compare, you see the difference.

WHY G-E's ULTRA-VISION IS THE BEST PICTURE AVAILABLE IN TELEVISION...

An extraordinary Atomized Picture Tube—engineered and introduced by G-E expressly for G-E Ultra-Vision—increases picture brightness up to 80%. The exclusive Stratopower Chassis—another G-E first—was designed and built to operate Ultra-Vision at FULL efficiency. And to complete your viewing enjoyment, G-E's remarkable Glarejector System and Filter Safety Glass eliminate every avoidable trace of reflection. See Ultra-Vision today and see what these advances can mean to you in terms of better viewing.

GUNDERSON HIGHER TAXES

News of any action which might affect normal industrial activities travels fast and comes with B.C. interests in with restrictions of entering the B.C. field generally would be a blow to the government's policy of out industry as its taxation policy.

In addition to the new machinery which will allow cities and municipalities to assess property taxes for local taxation purposes, the government has passed primary, secondary and tertiary taxation. One per cent on net profits over $10,000 and 1 per cent tax on earnings under $10,000 under certain cases.

Portraits Capture Coronation Color

The grandeur of British pageantry, as seen through the eyes of American artist Molly Guion, went on exhibit Wednesday in Victoria for three weeks.

The portrait exhibition was officially opened by Lieut.-Col. W. J. Mosedale at the Moss Street Arts Centre.

The paintings are devoted almost exclusively to costume Britons and Scots. There are three outstanding exceptions to this, but even these are distinctive in their garb.

Molly Guion has captured in every sense the feeling of authority or tradition that goes with each of her huge portraits.

Her picture of the drummer of the 7th/9th Battalion, Royal Scots Territorial Army, is a proud picture of a proud man. All the glory that associated with the Royal Scots is shown in the haughty face of the young drummer.

The detail of uniform worn by the Scottish nobility and military is outstanding.

"She has even got the glint in the Scotsman's eye," Colonel Mosedale said in his opening address.

One of the most striking pictures of the whole exhibit is the State Trumpeter.

It seems to stand right away from the canvases as though it was a statue.

The show is classed as one of the finest the centre has had in its two-year history, and as the pictures all have a price attached, they would make suitable souvenirs of the second anniversary—but they aren't liable to be.

Prices range from $1,000 to $6,500. A huge painting of Queen Elizabeth II is priced at just $2,500, but only because it was done from a photograph.

The paintings will be on show daily until December 6 at the following hours:

Weekdays, 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; Sundays, 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., and Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30.

Also on show at the same time is an exhibit of oil paintings by British masters.

It includes works by Sir Joshua Reynolds, Sir Henry Raeburn, Augustus John, Constable, Colman and others.

The show, given by Ambassador Sir William Hayter, was followed by a champagne party. Most of the leading figures in the diplomatic colony attended.

Parapet Braced, Abbey Roof Saved

LONDON (Reuters)—Westminster Abbey was saved from serious damage recently when a parapet under repair threatened to collapse outward onto the roof of the monument room, surveyor S. E. Dykes Rower said Tuesday. Instead, the parapet, high up at the roof by the south transept, leaned inward and could be shored up temporarily with timbers.

Navy Man's Funeral Set Today

Last rites will be held at 10 a.m. today at Sand's Mortuary for CPO Leonard Day, 29, of Belmont Park, who died suddenly Monday aboard HMCS Cedarwood in harbor here.

After the service the body will be taken by naval ship to New Westminster. A military funeral will be held Friday at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Burnaby.

CPO Day is survived by his widow and three children at home, four brothers, Harvey in Victoria, William in Tahiti, Charles in Mission, and Mel and Jack in New Westminster; four sisters, Mrs. Tullie Rouleau in Nanaimo, and Mrs. Ellen Soderstrom, Mrs. Alice Hanson, Mrs. Jean Rouleau in New Westminster; his mother, Mrs. Harvey Day, New Westminster.

Study Ordered For Hospitals

The provincial government has ordered a survey of hospital needs in the Fraser Valley in an attempt to ward off a critical shortage of hospital accommodation.

Health Minister Eric Martin said the survey was being undertaken by the research division of the B.C. Insurance Service.

Mr. Martin denied, however, that all hospital building construction in the valley had been ordered halted.

He said there was only one project going on, at White Rock, and that steady progress is being made on that job.

Mr. Martin said the valley area is the most densely populated region in the province, and the hospital bed situation had reached the critical point.

The survey, which will probe every aspect of hospital needs, was called after hospital boards in the valley said six new projects, involving a multi-million-dollar outlay, are now desperately needed.

Both Mission and Chilliwack boards have demanded large new wings. Mr. Martin said the survey would determine how many beds are needed in each area, and possibly would advise the boards that even larger projects than that which they had requested would be needed.

There is no "overnight cure" for irregularity

But there is a simple, natural answer to the common problem of irregularity due to lack of bulk

There are men and women (perhaps you're one of them) who won't let "nature take its course". They try to substitute unnatural "forcing actions" for the natural regularity which sensible daily habits and sufficient bulk in the diet could probably maintain.

Many fall into the habit of using laxatives in a way laxative makers never intended. They take "big doses" will only without even reading the directions on the label.

Naturally, such overdoing with products intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage exerts upon the delicate digestive system an unnatural strain.

There's nothing wrong, of course, with taking laxatives occasionally. If you feel you have to take a laxative, just be sure you take it wisely—in an accurate, recommended dose.

BUT THERE IS A WAY TO AVOID TAKING DRUG-TYPE LAXATIVES AND TO PLACE YOUR DEPENDENCE ON NATURE, IF LACK OF BULK IN THE DIET IS YOUR TROUBLE.

In many natural foods—such as certain vegetables, fruits, and grains—nature gives abundant natural bulk which normally and naturally aids the rhythmic process of elimination.

In no other natural food is natural bulk so ideally found as in the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel, known generally as bran.

Bran is nature's "laxative food" instead of a medicine. When properly processed and shredded, whole wheat bran yields smooth natural bulk that the digestive system can handle in a natural way.

BY R. ROBERT MAGGS

The secretary of the Cats' Protection League has asked me to mention their annual cats' Christmas tree and tea on November 28 at 3 p.m. in the Orange Hall, 725 Courtney Street.

I understand there will also be home cooking and miscellaneous stalls. It is hoped that all people who are fond of cats will attend. Gifts on the Christmas tree will be entirely for cats and will consist of tins of cat food for pensioners, cats and other deserving cases.

Pensioners who would like their cats to receive a gift, are requested to mail their name and address to the Secretary, Cats' Protective League, 646 Niagara Street, or telephone G-6554.

DANGEROUS PRACTICE

Again the subject has arisen about boys—and sometimes girls too—allowing their dogs to follow them when they are out bicycling. I don't know what more I can do than I have already done in preaching the fact that this is a very dangerous practice, not only for the dog but also for the child on the bicycle. On numerous occasions I have seen a dog running alongside a bicycle, and some other dog will dash out from the curb to say "howdy". And the boy has to veer away from the dogs, thereby getting too often on the wrong side of the road, or losing control of his bicycle. It seems harmless enough for anyone to take their dog for a run this way, but believe me it has been the cause of a lot of accidents.

Mrs. R.J. Asks what must be done and what is the cost to be allowed to take a dog through the United States when on a vacation.

A—I have no knowledge of the cost of taking a dog through the States. I know that they must be inoculated and vaccinated, and any veterinarian will tell you what that costs. And if you call the customs office they would be able to tell you anything further, as rules and regulations change from time to time. I do not think that you should find too much difficulty.

Mrs. E.M.—I did not intend to "rebuke" you personally for not having taken your pet to a veterinarian. I realize your financial circumstances—and in your particular case your pet and happy recovery.

Bolivian Miners Help To Quell Revolt

Some of 40,000 mine workers mobilized by the Bolivian government to quell an attempted revolution by members of the Bolivian Socialist Falange are shown with dynamite sticks at waist level on arrival in La Paz to put down the rebels. The attempted revolt was subsequently quelled by regular troops, the government announced.—(Central Press Canadian.)

CPA Tokyo Flights May Cut Payloads

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pay, Japan and the Aleutian Islands, loads on Canadian Pacific Airlines operating to Tokyo may have to be reduced because of removal by the United States of a weather ship stationed in the North Pacific.

A spokesman said absence of the ship will deprive them of up-to-the-minute information on meteorological conditions in an area which lies directly on the Tokyo route.

The U.S. Coast Guard announced Tuesday that the floating weather station "S. for Sierra" will be recalled from her lonely position on the Great Circle route halfway between

Object Likely Meteor

Late Wednesday night Dr. R. M. Petric, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, said that from the limited description available the object that fell on Moresby Island appeared to be a meteorite.

However, he added that meteorites do not usually burn for as long as 12 hours but cool off rapidly.

"They get white hot on the outside as they travel through the atmosphere at tremendous speed but the inside remains cool and the whole cools off shortly after it hits the ground," he said.

"Meteorites are composed of stone, iron and nickel," he said. "There is nothing to burn."

The impact of meteorites striking the ground generates tremendous energy and explosions often follow.

He said if the object is a meteorite it has probably set fire to the surrounding area. Meteorites in the past have been known to set fire to whole forests.

Cloudy skies prevented the observatory staff from seeing anything in their telescopes in the last few days.

Two Hurt In Crashes

Two pedestrians, a nine-year-old girl and a middle-aged woman, were injured when in collisions with cars in two different accidents Wednesday.

Most seriously hurt was Mrs. Alice M. Kieser, 140 Bushby Street, who suffered a fractured spine and a fractured pelvis, and lacerations to face and ankles when she was knocked down at Cook and Pembroke Streets.

Royal Jubilee Hospital reported her condition as fairly good Wednesday night.

Nine-year-old Sharon Grice, R28 Devonshire, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital for X-rays to her left elbow when she was in collision with a car driven by Margaret B. Molson, 925 Foul Bay Road.

Sharon was running across Fort Street from the southwest to northwest corner of Fort and Douglas when she was in collision with the car being driven east on Fort Street.

Mrs. Kieser was in collision with a car being driven south on Cook Street by James Harvey Ritchie, 1322 Johnson St. at railway crossing.

Britons Shun Masks

LONDON (UPI)—The worst fog of the winter lifted its murky blanket from London Wednesday to disclose that bashful Britons had let slip their first big chance to wear the new smog masks.

Despite the clearing, air ministry experts warned that the fog which veiled much of the country Tuesday would probably return to London and southeast England during the night.

Gloom and fears of a new "killer smog" lessened as the fog blanket rolled away. Railway services were reported "almost normal" throughout the 23 counties affected by Tuesday's fog. Airlines left London on schedule.

Londoners rushed to get smog masks at the height of the fog but few of them wore the new gadgets. They were apparently too shy to be among the first to put them on.

But U.S. navy headquarters in London announced it was using "improved" smog masks to U.S. navy personnel asking for them.

"The sailors are far more enthusiastic than the WAVES," he said. "I guess the girls don't like hiding their faces."

Ocean Balks Rescue

PEARL HARBOR (UPI)—A navy PBY flying boat ditched in the rough Pacific Ocean near Midway Island Wednesday without casualties, but heavy seas balked rescue attempts.

The two-engine plane ran out of fuel 130 miles north of the island and landed safely enough for her crew of seven to transfer to a raft before the airplane broke up.

Two navy planes circled the tiny raft and reported there were seven persons aboard. The same number that took off earlier on the flight from Adak in the Aleutians.

Logger's Welcome Burns Hungry Bear

ROCKY MOUNTAIN Bruin, resulted in flaming loss HOUSE, Alta. (CP)—These are the camp cookhouse, and the bear faces of a meeting in Two weeks ago Ackers and the wilds between a lumber his men trapped through the camp operator and a lumber brush to prepare their site for fog but hungry, 600-pound winter operations. The bear black bear, was apparently waiting for this visit, especially for the Del Ackers, owner of the camp, lard, honey and various other 20 miles west of here, and Mr. morsels.

Every morning for two weeks, boards nailed over windows were torn off and huge bear tracks were left on tables and the floor.

In desperation one night Ackers shoved a heavy bench through the window, jamming it in place, he felt sure nothing larger than a rabbit could squeeze through.

Came the dawn and he found bench badly smashed but still blocking the window. Satisfied, he lit the stove.

Then out of the adjoining storeroom stroled the bear. Barred by the bench-fortified window, it had ripped off the storeroom door to gain entry.

As the bear headed for him, Ackers heaved a can of coal oil at it. The cookhouse went up in flames, the well-singed bear waddled off into the bush and Ackers had his clothing burned.

The story ended a week later when the animal returned—and was shot dead.

SMALL ISLAND HIT BY FIERY OBJECT

Blaze Bars Close Look

SIDNEY—A fiery object that hurtled down from the heavens and crashed on Moresby Island in the Strait of Georgia at about 10 p.m. Tuesday was still blazing so furiously Wednesday morning that identification was impossible, meagre reports from the island said.

The object—believed to be a meteorite—struck the island in a blinding flash and caused a violent explosion. It kindled a compact but intense fire with tongues of flame shooting 30 feet into the air, according to a report by an eyewitness.

The eyewitness was C. M. Robertson, retired, a resident of Moresby Island, who reported the occurrence in Sidney Wednesday.

He said the strange celestial missile landed about 200 yards from his home and the home of Albert Elliott, a Moresby Island farmer.

Neither dwelling was endangered by the fire which was concentrated in a small open area. Mr. Robertson said one or two trees were ignited but apparently the fire did not spread.

Both Mr. Robertson and his neighbor, Mr. Elliott, heard the explosion and saw the flash. They rushed out to investigate but the intense heat prevented close examination.

According to Mr. Robertson, the fire was still raging 12 hours later and it could not be ascertained what had started the blaze or how deep a crater had been made by the object.

Mr. Robertson, a retired planter, lived for many years in Singapore where he had experienced a number of thunderbolts.

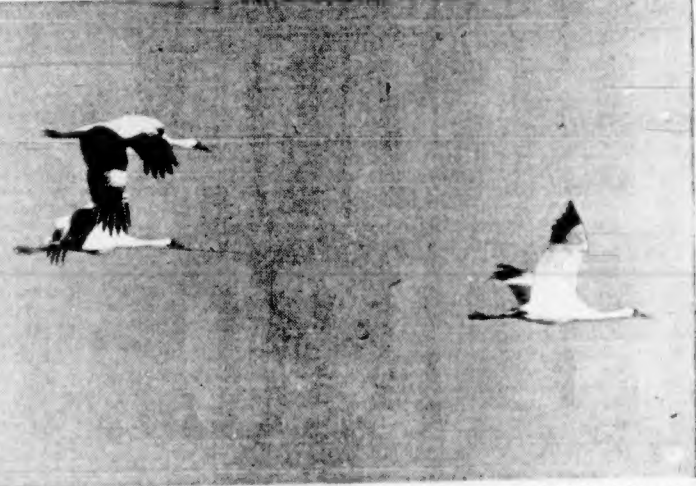

"But I've never seen anything as fierce as this," he told a Sidney correspondent.

Officials are inclined to doubt the explosion was caused by a thunderbolt but concede it could have been caused by a meteorite.

Moresby is a small island in the Strait of Georgia, several miles east-northeast of Sidney. It is completely isolated and lack of telephone communication has prevented detailed information of the strange occurrence.

Only a dozen or so families live on Moresby and information is obtainable only when someone comes from the island by boat.

Whooping Cranes in Flight

Described as a "one in a million" chance, this recent photograph shows three of the rare whooping cranes in flight in the Herbert district, 125 miles west of Regina. The birds were flying in the fall migration to winter grounds at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas. The known world population of whooping cranes is only 24 according to United States ornithologists.—(CP photo.)

English TV Viewers Jolted By Night with Elizabethans

LONDON (Reuters)—British televiewers argued Wednesday about the merits of the BBC's most controversial program of the year.

Like the viewers, the critics were divided in their reactions to Tuesday night's 2½-hour "Evening of Elizabethan Entertainment."

Setting of the program was the London of November 17, 1596, the 38th anniversary of the accession of the Elizabeth I. Viewers were asked to pretend they were watching an imaginary BBC transmission of that date, with some of the BBC's most popular current features shown as they might have appeared 357 years ago.

The BBC admitted it had received some telephoned complaints from angry TV fans. But it wants a thorough audience reaction analysis before reaching a final verdict.

In the "experiment," Sir Walter Raleigh, fresh from the sack of Cadiz, was submitted to press conference questioning, and flew into a huff when it was suggested he came home with too little booty.

A group of strolling players indulged wholeheartedly in some surprisingly bawdy song and dance routines. When an earthy performance of "Friar Bacon and Friar Bungay" wound up with the rehearsed audience hurling fruit in all directions, the screen faltered and then went blank. A moment later a hand-written manuscript proclaimed that "our skilfullest artificers are striving to restore the entertainment with all possible speed."

The choice of language was pegged on Shakespeare with script writer Hal Burton maintaining that not a word was spoken that wasn't used by the bard. Oxford historian A. L. Rowse supervised production to insure historical accuracy.

Morning paper TV critics appeared in Elizabethan ruffles in their photos Wednesday morning as they evaluated the results. "Corny, methinks," blasted the Labor Daily Herald's outspoken Emery Pearce. "Mediocre" entertainment glossed up in ruffles and frills.

But often-caustic Peter Black in the Daily Mail said the BBC had been able to "catch something of the vitality of the first Elizabethans" and had proved that television can "take social history and make it come alive."

Bicycle Built for Two

One of the new acts to be seen at Medrano's circus in Paris this Christmas season is "Les Chaludis," composed of four Danes who give sensational exhibits of trick cycling. Here are the two female members of the team riding around the arena in a head-to-head balance during rehearsal.—(Central Press Canadian.)

Eisenhower Silent About White Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower shunted the Harry Dexter White case aside Wednesday and voiced a hope the Communists-in-government issue will be a matter of history and memory by the time next year's election rolls around.

Eisenhower said that at this time he isn't saying another word about the "Soviet espionage" case that has rocked Washington and the country.

He told his press conference he hopes measures taken by his administration will clear from the minds of the American people suspicions that the government is weak in regard to Red infiltration.

In the Senate, the internal security sub-committee went ahead keeping the espionage issue alive. It gave new emphasis to several documents it had turned up previously and to two new ones to show that former treasury secretary John Snyder had promoted Harold Glasser after the FBI named both Glasser and White in reports on Soviet spying.

Whether Snyder actually saw the reports naming either White or Glasser was not established Wednesday. But a letter he wrote in 1948, brought to light during the day, made it clear he at least was aware of the charges against Glasser.

Snyder became treasury secretary in June, 1946.

Sub-committee documents showed he appointed Glasser director of the treasury's monetary research division in August, 1946.

Glasser stayed on in the treasury until the end of 1947.

Legacy Permits No Foreign Love

TORONTO (CP)—A former Toronto woman believed living in Vancouver will inherit $50,000 if she has not sought love with what her mother considers a "foreigner or good-for-nothing."

The daughter left home 11 years ago. Some time ago, police in Vancouver got in touch with her and she wrote to her mother last June saying: "I am back in Vancouver and am well." She gave only general delivery as her address and an answering letter came back to the mother. Last month, the daughter wrote again, without giving a residence address.

Two snapshots Elaine sent to other relatives show her with a little girl.

These are the stipulations set out in a letter Mrs. Nash, a time school teacher, sent to Vancouver police. In the letter, she asked police help in finding her daughter.

But if Elaine Marie Nash, 33, has married such a man, her mother, Mrs. Willa Alvera Nash of suburban Etobicoke town, will put the money in a trust fund so the husband can not get hold of it.

Dead are Larry Marbach, 19, of Calgary and Reuben Remole, about 20, of Carstairs.
